

OUT IN THE COLD

Fancy working as an Iceberg Cowboy or Dog Musher in freezing temperatures? Have you got what it takes to tackle the elements and conquer them?

When it's -37 Celsius outside and the wind is howling, most of us would do anything to avoid leaving our warm, cosy homes to go to work. But for a handful of people living in the extremes of the Arctic, going out in those conditions is their work. Out in the Cold takes you to a world few people ever see to meet the unique and varied individuals who tackle the elements and conquer them everyday with ingenuity and pure guts! Host Barry Kennedy pitches in and finds out just what it takes to wrangle icebergs from the open sea for their pure ancient waters, or to test new cars under the most extreme conditions. Get chills when we fly with an ice pilot as he shows us the thrills and dangers of flying a plane in icy conditions and learn why he does it, or be amazed at a wildlife vet who handles everything from seals to bison out in the freezing temperatures they inhabit. The series also sees Barry learn the ins and outs of dog mushing with the pros in the Yukon and lend a hand while learning what goes into the building of the incredible world famous Ice Hotel in Quebec.
