

Mother of the Bride

IF YOU THOUGHT DRESSING A BRIDE WAS DIFFICULT...
TRY DRESSING HER MOTHER!

Mother of the Bride takes us inside the drama that ignites when the mother of the bride/groom tries to find the best dress at one of the most stressful times.

Every day the dress consultants at T. Carolyn Fashions navigate the front lines of family conflict – helping moms look great and satisfying the bride’s often strident opinions. The shop owners, Barbara and Terrie Tibbetts, and their team help exasperated women overcome figure flaws, bad taste and out-of-control expectations in the quest for the perfect dress. If that isn’t challenging enough, add the bossy bride, a controlling husband or bitchy best friend. Luckily these dress consultants navigate the stormy waters with frank advice and a huge sense of humour.

Even after 21 years and 100,000 dress sales, they never know what kind of family drama is about to walk in the door and explode all over the pretty carpet. This team is committed each time to get mom looking drop dead gorgeous on the big day.

Barbara

is the matriarch; ballsy, gregarious and passionate about standing up for mom – reminding her that she is not a bridesmaid and doesn’t have to match the dinner napkins!

Terrie

is Barbara’s daughter and together they own the store. Terrie is more compassionate with the brides, is smart as a whip, sharp as a tack and really good at rolling her eyes!

Dante

mans the accessories counter and is Terrie’s husband. Bringing some male energy to the store, he’s even been known to try on a pair of control top undergarments. All in the name of research!

Margaret

used to have a career in politics but says this job is way harder! She pulls no punches and her sharp wit often disarms the entourage that accompanies mom to buy a dress.
