

JUNIOR VETS

Do these young animal enthusiasts have what it takes?

Junior Vets gives six ordinary kids the chance to become the first ever juniors to enrol at the super high-tech Vet School at Edinburgh University. They are working alongside the school's top vets and are being pushed to the limit as they treat poorly pets and farm animals as well as wounded wildlife.

Each of the Junior Vets has their own unique reason for joining up. Some are anxious about animals or they want to prove they are capable of owning a pet. Others are desperate to become a vet when they grow up. But they all share one goal: they want to prove they've got what it takes! Some of the Junior Vets have hardly any animal experience, so are they ready for heavy duty vet work? Have they got the stomach to succeed? Can they stay calm under extreme pressure? They are all competing against each other in the race to be named 'Head Vet' by series presenter and leading vet, Paul Manktelow.

Six raw recruits. But there can only be one winner!
