Married To The Game is a deep-access documentary series that follows the wives and girlfriends of some of the most celebrated and up-and-coming professional ice hockey players across North America. Whether they are married to players new to the pro ranks, already superstars or nearing retirement, these wives form a team of their own to support and encourage each other through personal and professional highs and lows. There may be some incredible perks to being a hockey wife but make no mistake, it also poses extraordinary challenges. These dynamic women must balance the grind of the regular season, long periods of separation and their partner's injuries and formidable threat of being traded, all while raising families and building their own careers. They navigate the challenging lifestyles in the high stakes world of professional ice hockey with grace and humour.
