YOU SWALLOWED WHAT?

Meet some people who bit off more than they could chew...

This special brings together Doctors, gastronomists and swallow experts to provide the medical context to the extraordinary and often dangerous journey from mouth to stomach.

Explore real-life cases including a young boy who swallowed a squid hook with 32 razor sharp spikes; the man who didn't realize he'd swallowed a toothpick until surgeons removed it months afterwards; and the human hairball created by a girl who ate strands of her own locks for six years.

Then there are those who swallow incredible inedibles on purpose: from a man who takes TV dinners to a new level by consuming seven television sets; to a world record attempt to swallow the greatest number of swords; and the crowning of a new champion in the sport of competitive eating.

You Swallowed What? looks at how much a stomach can really bear.
