DISCOVERED BY DISASTER

Throughout history, extreme weather events and catastrophic disasters – both natural and human made – have scarred and reshaped the earth's surface. These events can wreak terrible destruction. But they can also uncover incredible things.

From hurricanes revealing medieval skeletons, Mayan hieroglyphics and shipwrecks to droughts uncovering ancient lost cities, cryptic stone monuments and human remains, Discovered by Disaster examines mysterious curiosities that were once hidden from human eyes, only to be exposed by a calamitous incident.

Using cutting-edge CGI, archival and stock footage, and expert interviews, the series delves deep into these discoveries with a mysterious, investigative look and feel.

SECRETS IN THE JUNGLE

The jungles and forests of Earth have terrified the human race for years. There's just something unsettling about not knowing what could be lurking behind the next tree. That hasn't stopped us from exploring them and searching for the lost cities and treasures rumored to be inside.

In recent years, the world has become a much smaller place with everything mapped out and no location hidden from satellites. However, the jungles still hold their secrets, with large amounts of land still unexplored, tribes unmet, creatures undocumented, and hidden ancient ruins beneath their thick canopies. From secret structures in Guatemala, mystery fossils in Madagascar or Mexico's Skull Cave – Secrets In The Jungle unveils never before seen secrets.

COAST GUARD

7 days a week, 24 hours a day, the Canadian Coast Guard ensures the safety of mariners and the protection of marine environments throughout Canada. The Coast Guard documentary series delves into the maritime and port world of fearless workers. These men and women carry out unusual jobs. They sacrifice a significant part of their personal lives to participate in icebreaking operations, search and rescue interventions or even delicate marking missions where they sometimes have to deploy buoys weighing more than 3,000 pounds... All this in order to ensure safety on the country's waterways, while confronting the vagaries of nature and many unforeseen events...

IRON MOUNTAIN

In the first two seasons of Iron Mountain, we discovered the fascinating world of the Mont-Wright iron mine and the men and women who work there. One of the largest open-pit mines in North America, Mont-Wright is only one-step in the journey of iron ore extraction and distribution.

Season three will explore the long and beautiful route beyond Mount-Wright, starting at the Fire Lake mine where workers live for 14-day shifts, and ending at the small port town of Port-Cartier where the iron is exported worldwide. Along the way, IRON MOUNTAIN will delve deep into the lives and livelihoods of the extraordinary people who make this dangerous industry run.

From the scaling team who suspend hundreds of feet in the air, dropping huge rocks along the railway to secure the slopes, to the railway operators whose days are guided by the frenetic rhythm of constant train traffic, to some familiar faces at Mon-Wright, IRON MOUNTAIN S3 is an exciting glimpse into the lives of some of the nations most interesting and dangerous jobs and the people who do them.

THE TRUTH ABOUT MY MURDER

When a murder is committed, it's always a race against time to find the truth. To separate fact from fiction. To catch the killer. And to make sure that justice is served. But what happens when the truth vanishes with the victim? Forensic pathologist Doctor Richard Shepherd has performed nearly 23,000 autopsies, including on some of the most high-profile cases of recent times.

He's learnt that the dead don't hide the truth and they never lie. Through him you'll be hearing directly from the victims. From a state-of-the-art laboratory, with ground-breaking technology that uses digitally scanned sample bodies, he'll be investigating a series of intriguing murders where from the victims' bodies, he'll be revealing to YOU the truth behind those horrific crimes.

HISTORY IN THE MAKING

Across the nation and around the world, there are craftsmen who are creating unique items using the same methods from decades, centuries, even millennia in the past. These growing number of experts are producing handcrafted goods which are astonishingly beautiful, tough as nails and coveted the world over. The process of watching them work is not just fascinating: it also gives us a dynamic, living glimpse back in time to see how some of the most significant items in history were made.

In each 30-minute episode, History in the Making vividly presents the process - using the original techniques - in the recreation of three items of historical importance. Combining the joy of discovering how things are made with the fascinating historical facts that surround them; this is the show that truly reveals History in the Making. The second series goes further afield to film exceptional craftsmen in North America and Europe.
