

JON HAMM

Confess, Fletch

A dead body.
A stolen Picasso.
And this guy.

Jon Hamm (Top Gun: Maverick, Mad Men) steps into Chevy Chase's "gumshoes" as he takes over the infamous role of Irwin M. "Fletch" Fletcher in a reboot of the classic franchise, directed by Greg Mottola of Superbad and Adventureland fame.

JON HAMM HAS FINALLY MADE FLETCH HAPPEN. After more than 30 years' worth of attempts to revive the popular mystery-comedy franchise, a new version of Fletch is finally set to arrive this year, starring Hamm as the roguish journalist Irwin "Fletch" Fletcher.

While Chevy Chase first brought him to life in the 1985 screwball comedy and its 1989 sequel Fletch Lives, the reboot is inspired by the second novel in the series and promises to take on a slightly darker tone. It finds Fletch caught up in multiple murders, for one of which he is the prime suspect. He's also saddled with recovering his fiancée's stolen art collection, inherited from her long-lost father.

Directed by Greg Mottola (Superbad, Adventureland) from a script by Zev Borow (Chuck, Lethal Weapon), the comedy-noir is an updated take on the "Fletch" character based on Gregory Mcdonald's 1970's mystery novels. Hamm produced and stars as the title character, Irwin M. Fletcher, an investigative reporter, and former Marine. Joining Hamm is an all-star cast including Academy Award® winner Marcia Gay Harden (Pollack, The Morning Show), 2-time Emmy® nominee Kyle MacLachlan (Twin Peaks, Dune), and the long-awaited reunion between Mad Men alums Hamm and John Slattery (Mad Men, Veep).
